The habitats protected with Federal Duck Stamp dollars benefit hundreds of species that need wetlands to feed, breed and rest. In some of the same salt marshes and shallow waters where you'll find ruddy ducks, you may also glimpse the Ridgway's rail, a grayish-brown, chicken-sized bird with a long, curving bill and a conspicuous whitish rump. Once abundant in California's wetlands, the Ridgway's rail fell to near extinction as wetlands were altered or developed. Your Duck Stamp purchase directly helps to protect habitat that is key to the survival of the Ridgway's rail and other rare species.

In 1916, the U.S. and Canada signed the first international treaty to protect migratory birds. Overharvest and loss of habitat affected many migratory bird species, prompting important agreements and new laws to conserve shared wildlife resources and leading to cooperative habitat and population management. As we prepare for the next century of conservation, we still face many challenges to migratory bird conservation. But together, we can all do our part to create a bright future for our feathered friends.
