POST CARD

THE FIRST TRIP OF THE "CLERMONT." The initial trip of the first steamboat, the "Clermont," invented by Robert Fulton, was made on Aug. 11th, 1807. Its destination was Albany, a distance of 150 miles from New York City, and the speed averaged five miles an hour. The fuel was fat pine-wood, which created a continuous trail of sparks and smoke. Primitive as it was, it was the progenitor of all steam craft in the world.
