

Notes on 2018 UPSS Catalog listings in the Venn collection:

The following pages are from Porter Venn's hand-notated copy of the 2018 UPSS 19th Century Postal Stationery Catalog. The items with pencil check marks at left are present in this balance lot. The lines crossed out in black are for items that were removed and offered as individual lots – these items are not present. The total UPSS value quoted in the lot description is based on these entries.

While Siegel Auction Galleries has made an effort to cross-check the Venn collection binders with his inventory pages, it may be possible for some slight discrepancies, given the volume of entires in the collection. Any bidder needing additional information on any entire or group lot may inquire with Siegel Auctions at 212-753-6421.

Reprints exist of the first, second and third Nesbitt issue. They were printed from genuine dies on watermarked paper. They exist only as cut squares on vertically laid or wove paper. For more information see Reprints of Nesbitt Dies in part II of this catalog.

Dies 1 and 2 were first issued with a Nesbitt seal on the top flap (shown at right and see Historical Notes). The red seal was removed from production shortly after the envelopes began being distributed. Envelopes with and without the seal are now listed separately (previous page).

For Die 13 working die types see Part II 1860 Nesbitt Issue Working Dies of this catalog.

Die 12A is thought to have been used only for essays and proofs except for the special request envelope produced for America Express Co. (UPSS 43) and shown at left. It is likely that the special request came in and someone inadvertently put the Die 12A in the press for this single run.

Ungummed one cent envelopes were intended for third class use by businesses to mail circulars while gummed envelopes were intended for the drop rate (letters addressed for pick up at the post office where posted). Die 13 was only used for late printings of gummed one cent envelopes. The envelope at right (UPSS 44) is a drop letter used in Flushing, NY. It has a special request "Business card" which included sender's name, phrase describing the business of the sender, and address (available beginning in May, 1865). After May 1, 1871 nothing other than the name and address of sender was allowed in a Government printed corner card.

Identifying Buff and Manila Papers of Nesbitt Issues

Manila paper, at this time, was made of hemp fibers while buff paper was made of cotton rag. Manila paper is usually smooth on one side and rough on the other while buff paper has more similar finish on both sides. Manila paper tends to have some longer fibers (6 to 8 mm), especially visible under a 30x magnifying glass, and inclusions that are much darker brown than the rest of the paper while buff paper has shorter fibers and no inclusions.

The first wrapper issue (1861 star die) buff and manila types often be differentiated because the buff paper is similar in weight and texture to white paper while the manila is thicker and darker.

The two paper types can often be distinguished by color, with buff being lighter and manila being darker colors. However, buff and manila wrappers of the 1864 2c Jackson issue (Dies 24 and 25) have the same range of paper colors and weights. These wrappers can often be sorted by size because all wrapper sizes except the 100 mm wide, occur only with one paper type: the 115 mm and 133 mm width (most common and) were made only from manila paper while the 150 mm width only was made only with buff paper. For the 100 mm wide wrappers use the traits described in the first paragraph.

Nesbitt wrappers used to foreign destinations are scarce. At this time, prior to the UPU, rates varied to different countries according to negotiated treaties. The red 'PAID ALL' handstamp indicates that postage was fully prepaid to destination.

The larger sized three and six cents envelopes were printed with a different color stamp (brown and pink, respectively) than smaller envelopes (pink and purple, respectively).

Die 26 pink oxidizes easily to brown. The determining factor for pink or brown is envelope size since the brown die occurs only on legal size envelopes (size 21) and the pink die only on smaller envelopes (sizes 2, 7, and 10). A true brown die 26 should not have any spots of pink visible in the die with 30x magnification.
